

The Reichelt Program for Oral History

The Reichelt Program for Oral History continues to expand its collection. The World War II collection now exceeds 600 interviews and continues to keep us extremely busy. The 50th anniversary of the Korean War brought recognition of those veterans, and many of them have shared their experiences with our interviewers. The Vietnam collection is growing more slowly than we anticipated; perhaps the reticence of veterans to re-live those times is itself a telling note.

Our program web site has been upgraded to include not only all the names of our WW II participants, but also those of the many units in which they served. Eventually it will have all our participants listed. You can still contact us at <http://www.fsu.edu/~ohp>. The collection remains available by appointment for research purposes.

At the risk of repeating ourselves, we remind you that oral history is a widely recognized research technique used by contemporary historians. Anyone who is conducting research on a twentieth-century subject should consider the possibility of using oral histories in the search for information. We can help you locate not only interviews in our own collection that may be of use to you, but interviews in one of the many oral history collections that exist worldwide. You can help our oral history program, too. If you or any of your relatives have experiences in any of the project areas, we would like to hear from you. Contact us at (850) 644-4966 or rsellers@mailier.fsu.edu for further information.

Allen Morris Conference

In February 2002, the History Department sponsored the 2nd biennial Allen Morris Conference on the History of Florida and the Atlantic World. This year's theme was "Immigration, Migration, and Diaspora." The keynote speaker, Professor Louis Perez of the University of North Carolina, gave an address entitled "Between Encounter and Experience: Florida in the Cuban Imagination." More than 100 scholars and students from across the country attended the event, which is funded by the Allen Morris Endowment. Dr. Elna Green, director of the conference, reports that plans are already being laid for the next conference, to be held in 2004.

Congratulations!!

Dr. Jean Bryant has been promoted to professor upon retirement and awarded emeritus status and Dr. Ed Keuchel has been granted emeritus status.

Dr. Donald Horward was promoted to "Commandeur" of the Ordre des Palmes Academiques (France) in November 2001.

We're Back! (in Bellamy)

We returned to the Bellamy Building in April after the renovations were completed on our floor. All telephone numbers will remain the same. Please see our web site for new faculty room numbers.

Letter from the Chairman

After having served nine years as chairman of the department, I am stepping down in August, when Dr. Neil Jumonville will take my place. During the past nine years the department has undergone various dramatic changes, including the establishment of a number of endowments. Among them are the Ben Weider Eminent Scholar Chair in Napoleonic History, the Ben Weider Professorship of the French Revolution, the Allen Morris Professorship in the History of Florida and the New South, the Wallace Ward Reichelt Program in Oral History, the Sarah Mae Cummings and Ann Clemons Memorial Scholarship Fund, the Robert Adler Endowed Memorial Scholarship Fund, the Donald D. and Annabel Howard Endowed Fund, and a significantly expanded J. Leitch Wright Fund. Established last fall, the newest endowment, funded by the Barnett Historic Preservation Foundation, is the Barnett Bank Fellowship for the Study of Florida Banking History. Most of these endowments include support for students. Gifts from the Rintels Foundation have supported the Holocaust Institute for Educators, directed by Dr. Neil Betten, and the Institute on World War II and the Human Experience, directed by Dr. William Oldson. On the basis of these donations the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences designated Dr. Oldson the Rintels Professor of Humanities. Moreover, Dr. Jumonville was named the William Warren Rogers Professor of History.

During my chairmanship the department established a flourishing computer laboratory under the direction of Ms. Anne Marsh and Dr. Oldson, the biennial Allen Morris Conference on the History of Florida and the Atlantic World under the direction of Dr. Elna Green, a significant expansion of the oral history program under the supervision of Dr. Robin Sellers, and the Guadalajara Censuses Project, conceived and administered by Dr. Rod Anderson, with two major grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities. The Institute on World War II and the Human Experience, founded by Professor Oldson, already has approximately 9,000 collections, more than 5,000 of which were donated by Tom Brokaw. Nearly all of these collections consist of numerous documents, such as letters, diaries, photographs, and maps, and more than 500 of them have associated oral interviews. During the past nine years the department also made significant strides to implement higher professional standards and accountability.

Among the most dramatic changes during my tenure as chairman were the hiring of numerous faculty and the retirement of Dr. Bill Rogers, Dr. Ralph Turner, Dr. Jean Bryant, Dr. Edward Keuchel, and Dr. Robert Rubanowice. The new professors recruited during this period include Dr. Joan Casanovas, Dr. Matt Childs, Dr. Michael Creswell, Dr. Jonathan Grant, Dr. Edward Gray, Dr. Elna Green, Dr. Sally Hadden, Dr. Robinson Herrera, Dr. Albrecht Koschnik, and Dr. Nathan Stoltzfus. They will be joined by three new colleagues in the fall: Associate Professor Suzanne Sinke and Assistant Professors Frederick ("Fritz") Davis and Max Friedman. A specialist in U.S. social and immigration history, Dr. Sinke received her Ph.D. degree from the University of Minnesota, taught at Clemson University, and is the author of Dutch Immigrant Women in the United States, 1880-1920 (University of Illinois Press, 2002), the co-editor of A Century of European Migrations, 1830-1930 (University of Illinois Press, 1991), and the author of a host of journal articles. A graduate of the University of California at Berkeley (Ph.D., 2000), Dr. Friedman, a specialist in U.S. foreign relations, is the recipient of a Woodrow Wilson Postdoctoral Fellowship in the Humanities and the author of a forthcoming book on the United States campaign against the Germans of Latin America during World War II, to be published by Cambridge University Press. Dr. Davis (Ph.D., Yale University, 2001), a specialist in the history of science and medicine, has been teaching at the Rochester Institute of Technology, and his first book, A Naturalist's Life: Archie Carr, Jr. and the Conservation of Sea Turtles will be published by the University of Texas Press. Dr. Davis will help establish a new program in the history and philosophy of science.

The major accomplishments of the faculty in the past year included the acceptance of Dr. Green's latest book, This Business of Relief: Richmond, Virginia, and the Evolution of Social Welfare Policy in the Urban South by the University of Georgia Press, and Dr. Herrera's first book, Commerce and Society in Sixteenth-Century Santiago de Guatemala by the University of Texas Press. My latest book, Glimpses of Glory: John Bunyan and English Dissent, written with the support of a Guggenheim Fellowship and a residential fellowship at the Rockefeller Center in Bellagio, Italy, was published by Stanford University Press this spring. Dr. Anderson received a renewal of his grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to support the on-going work of the Guadalajara Censuses Project, Dr. Green was the recipient of a stipend from the Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt Institute, and Dr. Hadden was the recipient of research grants from the American Philosophical Society, the Filson Historical Society, and the Mark DeWolfe Fund. The department was especially pleased when Dr. Jim Jones received yet another prestigious University Teaching Award.

Chairing the department for nine years has been an honor as well as a daunting challenge. It is with relief that I return to that part of the professional life I love so much—pursuing research, writing, and teaching. I thank my colleagues, both faculty and a superb staff, for their support, contributions, and patience during the past nine years. Special thanks go to the three colleagues who faithfully and effectively served as associate chairmen, Paul Strait, Ralph Turner, and Peter Garretson, and to Bill Oldson, who supervised the department's transition to the age of computers. All of us can look forward to a bright future under the leadership of Neil Jumonville.

As always, we encourage our alumni to keep in touch and to continue recommending outstanding students for admission to our program.

Richard L. Greaves

INSTITUTE ON NAPOLEON AND THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

by Dr. Donald Horward, Director

Of the eleven members of the Institute in residence this year, three completed their M.A. theses and two took their doctoral comprehensive examinations. Several members of the Institute are in Europe doing research.

32ND CONSORTIUM ON REVOLUTIONARY EUROPE

On 21 February, 2002, ten students of the Institute traveled to Louisiana State University for the 32nd meeting of the Consortium on Revolutionary Europe. Among the current students of the Institute, Rick Black, Mary Cooney, Alexander Mikaberidze, and Jack Sigler presented papers, and Karen Greene, Kenny Johnson, Josh Moon, Jason Musteen, David Raymond, and Steven Schwamenfeld attended various sessions. Institute alumni on the program included Hal Blanton, Llew Cook, Sue Conner, Phil Cuccia, Everett Dague, Steve Delvaux, Brian de Toy, Kyle Eidahl, Milton Finley, Jim Herson, Glenn Lamar, Richard Long, Amy Johnson Reese, Paul Reese, and John Severn. Honorary members of the Institute, Peter Doherty, Gil Fernandez, Bill Flayhart, Jerry Gallaher, and David Markham, were also on the program.

SEVENTH ANNUAL AWARDS BANQUET

Forty-three Institute members and guests attended the Seventh Annual Awards Banquet on 23 February. Three new members of the Institute received pins—Kenny Johnson, Josh Moon, and Jason Musteen. Jolynda Chenicek was unable to attend, but she received her pin in April. During the banquet, Peter Doherty was made an honorary member and presented with a pin. John Severn was presented with the Legion of Merit, the highest award of the International Napoleonic Society, for his contributions to the study of the Napoleonic period.

WEST POINT CONTINGENT

Rick Black will begin his teaching assignment at West Point in July. Margaret Chrisawn's book, Napoleon's Friend, a biography of Marshal Jean Lannes, appeared last fall. Sue Conner was named Dean and Academic Vice President at Florida Southern University. Tom Cornell is at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. Phil Cuccia directed the History Honors Program at West Point. He has been assigned to the embassy in Bonn next year. He and Paul Reese were voted "Teachers of the Year" by the cadets and their peers. Matt Dawson has been on assignment in Afghanistan for the last six months. Steve Delvaux directed the thousand-student Military Art History course at West Point and will be joining the army staff in Korea. Mark Gerges is on the faculty at the Army Command and Staff College at Fort Leavenworth. Jim Haynesworth is on the staff of VII Corps at Heidelberg. Jim Hersen has taken command of a flotilla of army transports scattered around the globe. Paul Krajieski has been named professor of military science at the University of Rhode Island. Glenn Lamar received the Literary Award 2001, first prize of the International Napoleonic Society, for his volume on Jerome Bonaparte. Mike Leggiere's book, Napoleon and Berlin, has been published as the first volume in the Commander Series by the University of Oklahoma. Richard Long was named editor-in-chief of Soundboard: The Journal of the Guitar Foundation of America, which devotes considerable space to the guitar during the Napoleonic period. Paul Reese was deputy director of the Military Art History course at West Point and will be director of the course beginning in July. Brian de Toy is a professor of military science at the University of Kansas.

INSTITUTE VISITORS

In December Dr. Skip Vichness and his wife, Ilana, flew in from New York to spend several days with members of the Institute. During their visit, they made arrangements to establish an award to defray some of the costs Institute students face in their research and travel and to help those who face serious economic crisis in the midst of their studies. Joined by Dr. Don Barry, another Institute alumnus who teaches at Tallahassee Community College, they had opportunities to meet and talk with current students of the Institute about their work.

Another alumnus, Dr. Hal Blanton, Deputy Head of the Department of Policy and Strategy at the U.S. Naval War College, attended a weekly seminar and discussed the unique elements of his work with Napoleon's prefects and shared research techniques with Institute members.

Colonel John Hughes-Wilson, author of several volumes of military history, presented an analysis of Waterloo from the British perspective, followed by a question-and-answer period.

Baron Roger Jomini and his wife, Gladys, who established the General Antoine-Henri Jomini Fellowship in the Institute, made a substantial contribution to the award this spring. The proceeds of their recently published volume on General Jomini are to be donated to the Jomini Fellowship as well.

Graduate News

Roy Campbell has accepted a tenure-track assistant professorship in Asian history at Presbyterian College in South Carolina.

Madeleine Hirsiger Carr had an article entitled "Jim Crow and American Modernism: Suppressing the Urge to Be All a Nation Can Be" published in the German American Studies Journal. She presented papers at the Southern American Studies Conference in Atlanta and the Florida Historical Association annual meeting, both in 2001. Ms. Carr received a dissertation research grant from FSU and an independent scholar grant for research from the Florida Council on Humanities.

Fred Ferrer has accepted a position with the U.S. Investigations Services to work on a contract with the Air Force Office of Special Investigations at Andrews Air Force base.

Glenn Harris has accepted a tenure-track position in the history department at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

Jennifer Henderson has been awarded a $1,200 scholarship grant by the Naples Town Committee of the National Society of the Colonial Dames in the State of Florida.

Andrea Howard has received the $5,000 Delores Auzenne Fellowship.

Jason Jewell was nominated for a University Teaching Award.

Matt McCook has accepted a tenure-track assistant professorship in history at Oklahoma Christian University in Oklahoma City.

Matt Pinson has accepted the presidency of the Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tennessee. His wife gave birth to their son, James Matthew, on May, 2002.

Pam Robbins received a University Teaching Award.

Amanda Thomas won the 2002 Carolyn Mays Brevard Undergraduate Essay Award from the Florida Historical Society. Her paper on slavery and miscegenation, written for Dr. Elna Green's senior seminar, won the $250 first prize.

Alumni News

Kathryn Braund (Ph.D., 1985) is teaching colonial and revolutionary American history, as well as southeastern Indian history, at Auburn University. Her annotated edition of James Adair's History of the American Indians (1775) has been accepted by the University of Alabama Press. She attended the Institute for the Editing of Historical Documents at the University of Wisconsin, sponsored by the National Historical Publications and Records Commission. The Editing Institute will help with her next book project, a new edition of George Stiggings' manuscript history of the Creek Indians. Dr. Braund is currently serving as President of the Bartram Trail Conference (<http://bartramtrail.org>).

Elaine Carey (M.A., 1992) is an Assistant Professor of History at the University of Detroit and the director of the James Guadalupe Carney Latin American Solidarity Archive.

Stan Carpenter (Ph.D., 1998) has been promoted to full Professor of Strategy and Policy at the United States Naval War College.

Anthony Ettore (M.A., 1988) received his J.D. degree from the University of Michigan Law School in 1990. After serving as a corporate lawyer, in 1997 he began working for the State of Florida. He is currently the lead enforcement attorney for the Department of Environmental Protection in the enforcement section of the Office of General Counsel.

Ray Fletcher, Jr. (M.S., 1956) retired after twenty years with U.S. Probation in Miami as deputy chief. His second retirement was after serving 7½ years as an investigator with the Dade County Department of Corrections in Miami. His retirement plans are to reside part of the year in Brevard County, FL, and the rest of the year in Costa Rica.

John Gordy (M.A., 1973) has worked with the Office of Executive Investigations since 1982 as an inspector, primarily for the investigation of public corruption offenses, governor's-order investigations, and internal affairs.

William Head (Ph.D., 1980) continues to serve as Chief, Warner Robins Air Logistics Center Office of History. Greenwood/Praeger has accepted his book, Plotting a True Course: Strategic Bombing and Its Effects on Air Force Theory and Doctrine.

Douglas Helms (Ph.D., 1977), historian at the Natural Resources Conservation Service in Washington, D.C., wrote several articles, and edited profiles for the History of the U. S. Soil Survey. He was awarded an Archie K. Davis Fellowship by the North Carolina Society. In 2001 he published "Soil Science" in The History of Science in the United States and "Walter Clay Lowdermilk" in American National Biography (web version). He presented "Soil and Southern History" at a UCLA Department of Geography Colloquium, and "Collier Cobb's Soil Investigation Curriculum at UNC-Chapel Hill" at the annual meeting of the Soil Science Society of America.

Richard Lukas (Ph.D., 1963) delivered the keynote address on the Polish experience during World War II at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. The revised edition of his book, The Forgotten Holocaust, has been released in paperback by Hippocrene Books.

Joyce Sampson (Ph.D., 2001) has finished her first year as Associate Professor of Strategy at the U.S. Naval War College.

Alana Cain Scott (Ph.D., 1999) was awarded tenure and promoted to associate professor at Morehead State University. She currently acts as the History Discipline coordinator in the Department of Geography, Government, and History, is the university's representative to the University of Kentucky Press, and has been named to the university's Honors Faculty. She is working on a study of late seventeenth-century nonconformist women with the help of a research grant provided by MSU.

Faculty News

Dr. Rodney Anderson will continue to focus his research on the Guadalajara Censuses Project. By the end of the summer the project should have two CDs available, one for genealogists and family historians, and the other for the scholarly community. The NEH renewed his grant for more than $166,000.

Dr. Neil Betten continues to serve as director of the Holocaust Institute for Educators.

Dr. Joan Casanovas joined our faculty as assistant professor in the Spring, 2002. He received his Ph.D. from State University of New York at Stony Brook in 1994. His fields include Cuba, Spain, and Latin America. In September, 2001 he presented a paper on the Cuban labor press in the 19th century in Mexico City, and in February, 2002 he chaired a panel on urban slavery in Baltimore, Havana and Santiago (Cuba), and Minas Gerais (Brazil) at the Allen Morris Conference on Florida and the Atlantic World.

Dr. Matt Childs received a First-Year Assistant Professor Award. His chapter, "'A Black French General Arrived to Conquer the Island': Images of the Haitian Revolution in Cuba's 1812 Aponte Rebellion," was published in The Impact of the Haitian Revolution in the Atlantic World, ed. David Patrick Geggus (University of South Carolina Press, 2001).

Dr. Valerie Jean Conner is the director of the HAPH Program.

Dr. Michael Creswell wrote political commentaries that were distributed to H-Net and daily newspapers by the History News Service. His article, "With a Little Help From My Friends: How France Secured an Anglo-American Continental Commitment, 1945-54," will be published in Cold War History in June, 2002. He has received a prestigious McKnight Fellowship.

Dr. Peter Garretson is undertaking research for a book on the frontier of western Ethiopia, and another on the life of Dr. Charles Martin (1864-1954), personal physician of Emperors Menilek and Haile Sellassie.

Dr. Jonathan Grant wrote reviews for Slavic Review and History: Reviews of New Books. His article, "The Sword of the Sultan: Ottoman Arms Imports, 1854-1914," was published in The Journal of Military History in January, 2002.

His next book, Girding for Battle: Arms Sales in a Global Perspective, 1800-1950, which he is co-editing, is under contract to Greenwood Press. He is a member of the executive council of the Southeast World History Association.

Dr. Edward Gray has received doctoral directive status. He presented "Anglo-American Merchants Confront Risk" at the FEEGI Annual Conference.

Dr. Richard Greaves chaired the session on "England's Troubles: The Recontextualization of the Stuart Era" at the American Historical Association in January, 2002. His book, Glimpses of Glory: John Bunyan and English Dissent, was released April, 2002, and his article, "Seditious Sectaries or 'Sober and Useful Inhabitants'? Changing Conceptions of the Quakers in Early Modern Britain," was published in Albion (Spring, 2001). He continues to serve on the editorial boards of Albion, Bunyan Studies, and The Baptist Quarterly, and in January he completed his terms as a member of the Research Division of the American Historical Association and the AHA's Task Force on Graduate Education. He was recently appointed to the Program Policy Committee of the American Society of Church History. He reviewed books for Albion, Sixteenth Century Journal, Catholic Historical Review, Church History, Journal of Religious History, and Religious Studies Review.

Dr. Elna Green is the director of the Allen Morris Conference on the History of Florida & the Atlantic World, held biennially at Florida State University. She was commentator at the June, 2002 Berkshire Conference session on "Women and Welfare: Comparative Histories from the English-speaking World." Her book, This Business of Relief: Richmond, Virginia, and the Evolution of Social Welfare Policy in the Urban South, has been accepted by the University of Georgia Press. She reviewed books for Law and History Review, Florida Historical Quarterly and New Left Review.

Dr. Sally Hadden's chapter entitled, "Judging Slavery: Thomas Ruffin and State v. Mann" was published in Local Matters: Race, Crime, and Justice in the Nineteenth-Century South (University of Georgia Press, 2001). Her essay on "Colonial Law" was published in the Encyclopedia of American Cultural and Intellectual History (Scribner's, 2001) and she wrote book reviews for the American Journal of Legal History, History Computer Review, Reviews in American History, and South Carolina Historical Magazine. Dr. Hadden has received doctoral directive status and research grants from the Mark DeWolfe Howe Fund (for legal history and civil rights research), the American Philosophical Society, and the Filson Historical Society.

Dr. Paul Halpern is a member of the editorial board for the International Journal of Naval History. His article, "The French Navy, 1880-1914" was published in Technology and Naval Combat in the Twentieth Century and Beyond (Frank Cass, 2001).

Dr. Robinson Herrera presented "Strangers in 'Exotic' Lands: Teaching Ethnicity in Latin America" at the April 2001 Organization of American Historians, "'Con ayuda de los Indios: The Foundation and Growth of Early Santiago de Guatemala" at the September, 2001 Latin American Studies Association, and "Enslaved and Freed: Blacks in Sixteenth-Century Santiago de Guatemala" at the March, 2002 Joint Conference of the Southwestern Historical Association and Southwestern Social Science Association. His first book, Commerce and Society in Sixteenth-Century Santiago de Guatemala, will be published by the University of Texas Press.

Dr. Donald Howard was promoted to "Commandeur," the highest rank of the Ordre des Palmes Academiques (France), in November, 2001. In October, 2001 he was named John Elting Scholar for his contributions to the study of Napoleonic history by the Napoleonic Alliance at West Point, NY. In August, he held the Chair of Military Affairs at the U.S. Marine War College for the eighth time. He presented papers at the School of Advanced War Fighting, Marine University, the Marine War College, the U.S. Military Academy, and the 32nd Consortium on Revolutionary Europe at Louisiana State University. He co-edited the 2000 Selected Papers of the Consortium on Revolutionary Europe, which was published in March, 2001.

Dr. James P. Jones received a University Teaching Award.

Dr. Maxine Jones was an invited lecturer in the Honors Program at Florida State University in Fall, 2001.

Dr. Neil Jumonville will be the chairman of the History Department beginning in August, 2002. His article, "Henry Steele Commager," was published in Scribner Encyclopedia of American Lives, vol. 5. He was a referee for the State University of New York Press and he has had an article accepted by the Journal of the History of Biology.

Dr. Albrecht Koschnik will present "The Living and the Dead: Eulogies, Exemplary Character, and Professional Communities in Early Nineteenth-Century Philadelphia" at the SHEAR Annual Meeting. His chapter, "Young Federalists, Masculinity, and Partisanship in Early Republican Philadelphia," will be published in Beyond the Founders: New Approaches to the Political History of the Early American Republic, ed. Jeffrey Pasley, Andrew Robertson, and David Waldstreicher (University of North Carolina Press).

Dr. Winston Lo presented "The Song Creation of the Military Canon and its Implications" at the Conference on Chinese Military History. His article, "The Reality of Civil Officials of the Northern Song Period in Command of Armies," was published in Proceedings of the Annual Conference of the Florida Association of Chinese Scholars, vol. 12 (2001).

Dr. William Oldson was awarded the Patrick Henry Silver Medallion by the Military Order of the World Wars. His article, "Alibi for Prejudice: Eastern Orthodoxy, the Holocaust, and Romanian Nationalism," will be published in the East European Quarterly.

Dr. Joe Richardson is pursuing research on the American Missionary Association and African-Americans in the southern and border states, 1890-1965.

Dr. Peter Ripley's latest book, Conversations with Cuba, was published in a paperback edition by the University of Georgia Press in 2001.

Dr. Bawa Singh is writing a biography of Lord Henry Hardinge, governor general of India from 1844 to 1848.

Dr. Nathan Stoltzfus presented "Green Protest in the German Democratic Republic" at the 2001 European Environmental History Association in Scotland. In April, 2002 he presented "Public Space and the Dynamics of Environmental Action: Green Protest in the German Democratic Republic" at Columbia University. He was a historical consultant and interviewer for the documentary film on the Rosenstrasse Protest. His chapter, "Witness in Spite of Himself: Victor Klemperer's Twentieth-Century Germanies," was published in Remembering for the Future: The Holocaust in an Age of Genocides, ed. John K. Roth and Elisabeth Maxwell (Palgrave, 2001).

Dr. Paul Strait is Associate Chairman for Undergraduate Affairs.

Dr. Jan Tanenbaum lectured at the Holocaust Institute for Educators.

Dr. Edward Wynot presented papers on "Globalization and East Europe" at the 4th Annual International Conference on Globalization and "The Polish Orthodox Church under Communism" at the Annual Convention of the Southern Historical Association.

We want to hear from you!

Please complete this questionnaire and return it to Julie Barrett, Florida State University, History Department, Tallahassee, FL 32306-2200, or email the information to jdbarret@mailier.fsu.edu. Remember to notify Alumni Affairs when you move. They print the address labels we use to mail the Newsletter. You can reach them at (850) 644-2761 or by mail at Alumni Affairs, Florida State University, Tallahassee, FL 32306-4174.

Thank You!

NAME: _____ E-MAIL: _____

ADDRESS: _____

HOME PHONE: _____ WORK PHONE: _____

YEAR OF GRADUATION/DEGREE CONFERRED: _____

CURRENT/PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES: _____

---

---

---

---

Non-profit Organization
U.S. POSTAGE PAID
TALLAHASSEE, FL
PERMIT NO. 55

The History Department Newsletter is available in alternative format by contacting Julie Barrett, History Dept., Tallahassee, FL 32306-2200, (850) 644-5888, or the University ADA director, campus mail code 2410. For people who are hearing or speech impaired, contact the phone number through the Florida Relay Service at 1-800-955-8770 (voice) or 1-800-955-8771 (TDD).