National Flagship Language Program

<http://www.iie.org/programs/nsep/flagship/default.htm>

NFLP Fellowships are two-year awards that provide support for all academic expenses directly associated with participation in the National Flagship Language Program, including tuition, a stipend for living expenses, and support for travel costs and health insurance coverage.

The fellowship has two components: one domestic and one overseas. The first year of the fellowship is intended to support study in an intensive domestic program at the flagship institution. The second year supports study in an immersion program overseas. It is expected that all Fellows who participate in the domestic component will continue with the overseas component. In exceptional cases, flagship institutions may determine that an applicant with advanced language skills should bypass the domestic year and participate in only the overseas component. In these cases, the NFLP Fellowship will provide funding for one year of study. NFLP Fellowship award recipients are expected to devote full-time effort to the Flagship Language Program. NFLP Fellows may not pursue requirements of other degree programs while receiving NFLP Fellowship support, nor may NFLP Fellowships be combined with other sources of funding that would require Fellows to devote less than full-time effort to the Flagship Language Program.

Qatar Scholarship Program

The Qatar Scholarship Program offers dedicated Arabic language students from the United States the opportunity to master their skills in an intensive Arabic language program at the University of Qatar in Doha.

This program is open to graduate students or those recently obtaining a Bachelors or Masters degree. The scholarship includes round-trip economy air tickets to Doha, Qatar, tuition, university housing, books and a modest monthly stipend of QR 500 (approximately $130 US). Please note, however, that the monthly stipend is modest and students should plan on supplementing this with their own savings). Scholarship students are also required to tutor QU students in English for four hours per week.

The program is designed for those who have already developed their Arabic at the Intermediate and Advanced levels (minimum of 2 years of study is needed to apply). Students passing a proficiency exam at QU also will have the opportunity to audit regular undergraduate courses taught in Arabic in an array of subjects, but the University of Qatar provides no academic credit for this program. The Department of Arabic has a number of specialized instructors who have extensive experience teaching Arabic to non-native speakers. Modern Standard Arabic (fusha) and formal spoken Arabic (lughat al muthaqafeen) are offered, however, at the present, Qatari colloquial Arabic is not offered. The curriculum includes: reading, composition, phonetics, Arabic literature in the modern period, the Quran, Hadith, schools of poetry, rhetoric, Arabic grammar, semantics, and methods of teaching Arabic for non-native speakers. For more information about the program at QU, click here.

The Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarships Program

The primary purpose of the Rotary Foundation Ambassadorial Scholarships Program is to further international understanding and friendly relations among people of different countries.

Ambassadorial Scholarships for 2000-2001 are awarded for study or training beginning after 1 July 2000 in another country where Rotary clubs are located. During the study period, scholars are expected to be outstanding ambassadors of good will to the people of the host country through both informal and formal appearances before Rotary clubs and districts, school and civic organizations, and other forums. After study has been completed, scholars share their experiences with the people of their home countries and with the local Rotarians who sponsored their scholarship.

Types of scholarships

Academic-Year Ambassadorial Scholarship provides funding for one academic year of study (usually nine months) at a study institution assigned by The Rotary Foundation Trustees. Because the scholarship is primarily ambassadorial and limited to one academic year, recipients may not be able to earn degrees or diplomas during the study period. This award is intended to help cover round-trip transportation, one month of intensive language training (if assigned by the Foundation), required academic fees for a normal course load, reasonable room and board expenses, and some educational supplies. The Foundation will not pay additional costs resulting from personal living preferences. Generally, awards will range between US$ 11,000 and US$ 23,000 depending upon actual costs at the assigned study institution, with no award to exceed US$ 23,000 or its equivalent. Applicants who request and are assigned to an institution where costs exceed US$ 23,000 must pay all additional costs.

Harry Truman Scholarship

Harry Truman Scholarship seeks future "change agents" who aspire to leadership positions in federal, state, or local governments or in the not-for-profit and education sectors where they can influence public policies and programs. Candidates should have extensive community service, have outstanding leadership potential, and be committed to a career in government or in public policy. Approximately 75 awards of $30,000 are made annually, $3,000 for the senior year and $27,000 for graduate studies.

Qualifications: be a full-time junior at a four-year institution, be committed to a career in public service, be in the top 25% of his/her class, and be a U. S. citizen or national. University nomination is required.
